we love to have guests

The annual migration of anadromous fish is a wondrous thing. It is a fascinating story to hear and even better to witness first-hand. We feel privileged to provide the public with the opportunity to view the “fish run” at both the Turners Falls and Holyoke Dams.

spring journey

Each spring when the shad bush blooms, New Englanders have the opportunity to view an incredible natural phenomenon. American shad, sea lamprey, Atlantic salmon and other anadromous fish swim up the Connecticut River as they begin their annual spring migration. These fascinating fish are born in the river and its tributaries but live most of their lives in the ocean. Driven by instincts as old as time, adult fish return to spawn in the rivers of their birth.

free
and fun for all ages

FirstLight Power Resources and Holyoke Gas and Electric's fishways on the Connecticut River help migrating fish over their dams. Underwater viewing windows at the fishways provide a window on the river for everyone to enjoy. Don't miss one of the most amazing natural history events taking place in our own backyard.

THE TURNERS FALLS FISHWAY

located in Turners Falls and owned by FirstLight Power Resources

FirstLight Power Resources has three fish "ladders" that help fish over the Turners Falls dam. These stairlike ladders consist of a series of pools, each approximately one foot higher than the last. The fish climb the ladders by swimming from pool to pool. The underwater viewing windows offer visitors a chance to see shad, lamprey and other fish as they continue upriver to spawn.

THE ROBERT E. BARRETT FISHWAY

located in Holyoke and owned by Holyoke Gas and Electric

The Barrett Fishway was the first and most successful fish lift on the Atlantic coast. It consists of two elevators or "lifts" which carry migrating fish up and over the Holyoke dam. Visitors can watch the lifts in action from an observation deck overlooking the Connecticut River. After the fish are lifted, visitors can witness their migration as they swim by the viewing windows and continue their upriver journey.
